

JRHS SETS COURSE TO FLOURISH

John Wooden, the decorated UCLA Men's basketball coach from 1948-1975, created the now famous "Pyramid of Success". One of his many famous quips about performance transcends time and function: "Success is peace of mind attained only through self-satisfaction in knowing you made the effort to do the best of which you were capable."

This year, JRHS is taking on some Bruin-like growth through the ACSI "Flourishing School Culture Model". ACSI has done an extensive study to define what a Flourishing School looks like. The model was rolled out in the summer of 2021, and JRHS signed on to be in the second cohort, during this academic year. The model defines Five Domains of Flourishing, and then 35 Constructs that support the Domains.

The first step in the process was a comprehensive survey of constituents, including parents, students, alumni, faculty and more. From this, JRHS was presented with an overview of the findings, compared to the national data. Then, Headmaster Philbrick went to the training Institute to learn how to best interpret the data and begin to put together growth initiatives that will move the needle for JRHS ever more in the "Flourishing" direction.

We can celebrate high marks in constructs such as "Holistic Teaching" which shows how JRHS effectively teaches the mind, heart, and hands to greater work, and "Spiritual Formation" which states how our Alumni report that their Christian faith is stronger thanks to attending JRHS. Areas where there is opportunity for growth include "Data-driven Improvement" which challenges us to centralize our efforts with data towards stronger Outcomes, and "Resource Planning" which directs our leaders towards ever improving our stewardship of God's resources.

CONGRATULATIONS TO VETERAN TEACHER, MRS. KAREN TRUDEAU!

On a cool early November evening, the Granite State Christian Schools Association held its annual Awards Banquet. Each year, Christian schools from all over the state gather to celebrate, and to honor teachers, administrators and school leaders with various awards.

This year JRHS was among the fortunate to give an award to our dearly loved and sorely missed Karen Trudeau, who retired from JRHS in June 2021. Karen taught science and math at JRHS for 10 years, and added much to our school. Headmaster Jeff Philbrick and Science Teacher Susan Wilderman presented the award.

The award is called the Comenius Award, named after the Renaissance era educational reformer, Jan Amos Comenius. To read the whole article, visit Headmaster's Blog on our website.

JRHS RECEIVES LARGEST GIFT IN SCHOOL'S HISTORY

Jesse Remington High School is pleased to announce a $200,000 Legacy gift, the largest one-time gift in the school's 30-year history. For this gift, the donors have chosen to remain anonymous. The Board of Directors is working to invest and allocate this money into a bright future for JRHS.

The focus areas for use right now include these four areas: Program Development, Reserve Fund, Faculty and Staff Care, and Campus Maintenance and Development. Headmaster Jeff Philbrick was blessed to receive the gift recently, and commented, "this is a significant transformational gift. We are truly grateful for the generosity of this long-term financial partner family, and we will be investing every bit of this gift to make a better, stronger JRHS into the years ahead."

FROM THE JRHS BOARD OF DIRECTORS - ALWAYS GROWING

By Ken Mason

Like sharpening a saw or tuning up a car, Boards need periodic maintenance to remain timely and perform at their best. We've recently taken two initiatives to improve our overall Board performance.

We've been blessed with very strong financial oversight from Scott Shillaber and his team, and the Lord has provided resources through His people. Finance has become more complex. The purpose of the Finance Committee is to understand and condense the more complex issues and bring them as an executive summary to the larger Board for actions. Members of the committee are selected from the Board of Directors based on financial acumen, and desire to serve this way. Focused areas include development of the annual budget, understanding best financial practice, and allocation of funds toward various reserves.

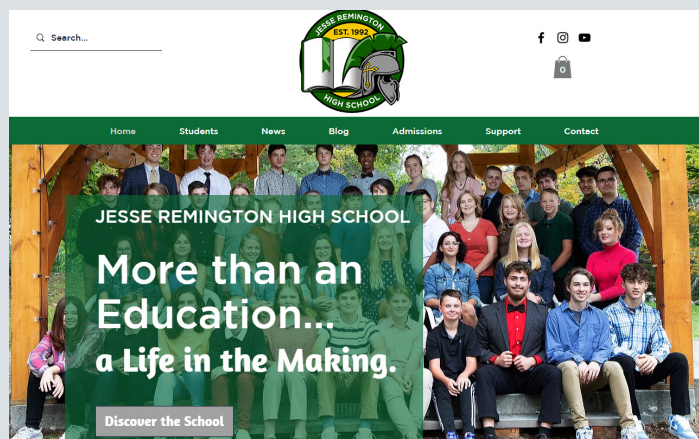

The challenges of the current season in JRHS life include: growth of the student body, effective use of space, the need for additional administrative and meeting space, the Flourishing School evaluation and initiatives, marketing the school for the next generation of student – and more! These items draw from the same pool of resources, so moving forward in the most effective way requires we think about the way we plan and employ resources in the most effective ways.

Additionally we always want to move within our core principles of: Excellence in Education, Strengthen the Church, Improving Faculty & Staff experience and Sustainable Business practices. If any of our readers want to learn more about Boardsmanship, contact Headmaster Jeff Philbrick at the school office.

COMING SOON....

A new logo means a new website and new JRHS merchandise!!!

We are excited to launch our brand new website and new school merchandise in early 2022. Stay tuned for updates, but for now, enjoy this sneak peak.

SENTINEL OF THE WEEK By Adalie Kamerman ('22)

Sentinel of the Week is an encouragement to the one who receives it, but also a great encouragement to others. It highlights the hard work students are doing to benefit the community, and builds desire in others to do the same. Each week, the teachers come together to choose one of the students to be the Sentinel of the Week, someone who showed excellence and improvement and deserves recognition.

A few winners so far this year include: Grace LeSage, for her encouragement, patience, and community building on the All Day Hike; Nate Archambault who did a great job leading his Humanities Faire group, and who served valiantly at Dreamers' Ranch; and Davis Palmer, for his strong desire for learning, great attitude and overall pursuit of excellence, all the while encouraging his classmates to do the same. All of the students that earn this weekly award have displayed to the teachers that they are trying to live out the mission of Jesse Remington High School.

The Sentinel of the Week award is a privilege to receive because it demonstrates that you are impacting your peers and your community in positive ways, and other people have noticed and appreciate your work.

KINGDOM IMPACT 2021 - ONE DAY OF GIVING CAMPAIGN

On September 28th, JRHS held our Kingdom Impact 2021 - One Day of Giving Campaign. We got the word out about the campaign through a series of videos, Facebook posts and emails. Several of our alumni gave testimony through video interviews, which are still available on the Jesse Remington High School Facebook Page. It was great to hear what those former students are doing now and what they valued about their JRHS experience.

The campaign was blessed by a gift from a generous supporter to be used to match gifts made during the day up to a total of $5,000. We established a fundraising goal for the day of $15,000. At the end of the campaign, we had received $21,195, which was 141 percent of our goal! Praise God for His provision!

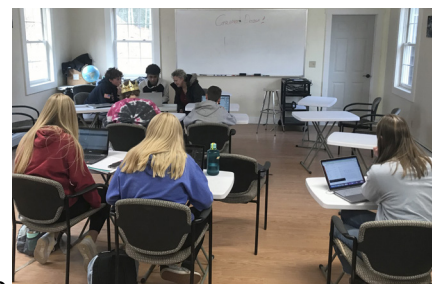

Gifts were received from 52 supporters including Alumni, Alumni Families, current School Families, Faculty, Staff and Board members and Friends of JRHS. Of special note, 15 of our alumni were among those who supported on the giving day. In addition, among those supporting were 5 first time supporters!

We are very thankful for those who support JRHS and are blessed by the support received during the One Day Campaign.

NEW STEM PROJECTS AT JRHS

By Nate Croley ('22)

This year we were blessed to be able to make the addition of two new project classes to the Project Based Learning Program: Graphic Design and Digital Photography. The design class is led by Mrs. Kathryn Carlson and they design things like logos and learn how to modify images. Each student selected various projects over the quarter, and gleaned the guidance from Mrs. Carlson to bring the idea to completion. It was a nice balance of creative license guided by design standards.

The photography class is led by Mrs. Aimee Landry. The students have expressed their love of how the class allows them to see the campus in another way - through a photographer's lens. Each week, the students took photos of school life, which will be used in newsletters, websites, media posts, the yearbook and more. They loved the community that was made up of multiple grades, and also the flexibility and creativity it allows.

THE ANCIENT WORLD FAIRE

By Aidan Jeanes ('22)

The Humanities Faire is a staple of the Jesse Remington Project Based Learning program, incorporating not only students and faculty but exposing guests to our unique community. This year's Ancient World Faire stretched from the Nile river of Ancient Egypt to the vast Colosseum of the Roman Empire and everything in between.

The primary goal of the faire is education through entertainment and engagement, as it gets captivates our guests in not only the material, but also our school. The centerpiece of the annual faire is the dramatic performance that the students research, write, and produce. Each student takes on the role of a prominent person from history.

Another important piece to the Humanities Faire is the Games and Activities that are designed to help the guests engage with the cast and learn through various mediums. One of this year's most popular games was "Roman Chariot Racing" led by student Camden Stockin. The game involved two students (known as "horses") pulling the chariots loaded with children and adults alike around an oval track to see which team could grasp the victory. Other games around the set included archery, arts & crafts, trivia games, costuming fun and many more.

The 2021 Humanities Faire was an astounding success with well-put-together performances as well as record-breaking attendance on Saturday. As a school, we look forward to the 2022 Reformation Faire to start the school year off strong.

FALL MOUNTAIN RETREAT

By Lukkas Hyvonen ('22)

This year, the students of Jesse Remington High School took an amazing trip to the picturesque lake and mountains of Lovell, Maine. The camp we stayed at was the New England Frontier Camp, and is located on beautiful Kezar Lake. The first day that we arrived, we broke into smaller groups, to create accountability and camaraderie. Once we were in different groups, we came up with team names, and went to stow our gear where we were staying. After this we went swimming in the gorgeous sunset of Kezar Lake. After swimming, dinner was served, and that was followed by a great message on following Jesus by Pastor Kevin Jurovaty, our retreat speaker. The day was nearly over and it was finally time to get some crucial sleep for the following day's hike.

The morning came quickly, and preparation for the hike was essential. Everyone went out hiking, some on Blueberry Hill, and some on Baldface Mountain in Evans Notch of the White Mountains. After a long day of hiking, we returned to the camp to swim, and have a great dinner, followed by another superb message from Mr. J. After this it was free time where some could play inside or outside games. The senior class then broke off from everyone else to have a seniors-only night to talk and reflect on the past. This was a great time to talk about previous experiences, and how we have grown together. The following morning, we awoke to go to a lakeside sunrise service, which was preached by Matthew Hannan. The sunrise was beautiful, and the message was great. We then had a final game time, packed our belongings, and made the trek back home. The fall mountain retreat was a great time to have fellowship with other students, learn about God, hone new skills, as well as build great memories.

INTRODUCING MR. MARTENS By Jaben Morganthal ('22)

Mr Martens is the newly acquired Chemistry and Biology teacher. Although the beloved Mrs Trudeau will be missed, Mr Martens has been a nice addition to the JRHS community. He has brought forth great academic structure and has taught us effectively, and been an encouragement to us all. One of the most interesting items about him (although he is quite interesting) is that he has three black belts, and has taught a number of us a few things. Not only is his ability to teach us been a blessing but his funny stories and jokes have made him enjoyed by the variety of students that attend Jesse. While his time here has been relatively short, the Junior/Senior GS Chem class has already acquired a nickname for him - "Mr Mc Fly". Mr Martens favorite part of being at Jesse is the unexpected blessing of being a part of the staff who prays for him and being surrounded by a strong faith based community. He enjoys teaching, and loves it when he sees his students finally understand the subject, when it finally clicks. That is a big accomplishment, and joy to see. Mr. Martens appreciates the support he gets from colleagues and school leaders, helping him develop his trade. The most fun thing that he's experienced here has been playing four square, and enjoying good lunch time fun.

KOINONIA By Theia James ('22)

Wednesday morning Koinonia is one of the core elements of spiritual formation at Jesse Remington High School. Each student is in a small group, led by an adult leader. For example, my group has a senior, a sophomore, and two freshmen. This inter-class experience allows us to form deep relationships with people in each class. During Koinonia, groups talk about personal struggles and growth, as Scripture guides the discussion. The leaders of Koinonia groups this year are Melody Song, Mrs. Stockin, Mrs. Philbrick, Mrs. Hyvonen, Mr. Croley, Mr. Kamerman, Pastor Steve, and Mr. Jurovaty. These groups are all organized by Pastor Joe Cyr.

At the first Koinonia meeting, at the start of the year, all of the groups met together in the Candia Church Fellowship Hall, and had a big breakfast, got to know their groups, and enjoyed some fun games and activities. The prize that one of the Koinonia groups won was a gift card to Dunkins.

After the first day, each Koinonia group met separately, girl's groups on one end of campus, and boy's groups on the other end. Each week, our discussions became more personal and deep, allowing us to get to know each other better as we grow in our faith. Koinonia is a place where students can share their struggles and victories, and is an amazing part of spiritual formation at Jesse Remington.

SMYTH MEMORIAL BUILDING READY FOR THE NEXT 90 YEARS!

Ninety years ago, the Town of Candia received a generous gift from the wife of the late governor Frederick Smyth, to establish a library. During the summer of 2021, this legacy town building went through a major renovation, led by Jesse Remington High School.

The renovation was accomplished in record time, illustrating how big goals can be accomplished when we all work together in a common direction. Local contractors were called upon to prioritize this work in the summer of 2021, with the stated goal of completion by Labor Day. The hard working and generous contractors included Severino Trucking, Patriot HVAC, Pioneer Electric, Ed's Flooring America, Smith Pump among others.

Smyth Memorial Building Restoration Project 2021

Groundbreaking was June 14, and final town approvals came on August 26 - 74 days in total! In those comparatively few days, much was accomplished. A new well and septic; all the interior plumbing and wiring; installation of a kitchenette, bathroom and work counter; new HVAC including air conditioning, new or renewed floors; fire alarm system; internet; some new paint - all this and more in just over two months! Dozens of generous donors stepped forth, raising the funds necessary for the goal - $150,000.

This new space provides another inspiring place for JRHS students to learn and grow. Originally designed as a library, it boasts elegant high ceilings, fine woodwork done by master craftsman, and ample windows on all sides providing natural light. In total, it provides JRHS with two great classrooms, a break room, and small group meeting room. We are excited to consider the future for JRHS, as this expansion has developed the east or Church side of campus to now include three buildings. We look forward to a full enrollment which will more fully utilize our newly expanded campus.

CHAPEL & WORSHIP

By Nate Archambault ('22)

One of the most unique and important aspects of Jesse Remington High School is our chapel and worship on Friday mornings. This is a great opportunity to come together as a community to glorify God. The morning starts with worship music led by a group of students who use their musical talents to lead the student body in praise songs. After singing three songs, with a break to read scripture, we transition into a time of school-wide prayer. When students arrive to chapel, they are given a small slip of paper containing a prayer topic. This slip of paper is used as everyone in the building comes together as one to lift these topics up to God. The morning then transitions its attention to a speaker, usually a guest pastor or missionary, with school Chaplain Steve Baker filling in when needed. These sermons are always wonderfully crafted through intense reliance on Scripture and a clear thesis. After the speaker has finished, chapel concludes with a benediction and announcements. Our chapel speakers often come from the churches of our families and this year we have seen Joshua Burns, Dave Denis, Eric Davis, Matt Huffman, Kevin Jurovaty, JJ Johnson, and Dan Elliot.

JRHS INTRODUCES A NEW LOGO

JRHS turns 30 years old this year, and as part of this celebration, we have undertaken a brand refresh, improving how we tell the JR Story.

Our current logo is nearly 20 years old, and to create this new one, we formed a partnership with Brandit Marketing Solutions, to help us communicate in words and images the great JR Story.

We carefully selected the elements of the new logo. As a base, we chose a Circle, a symbol of unity and completion. A circle also suggests strength and is both timeless and universal in its understanding.

The Helmet of the Sentinel has been the centerpiece of the current logo, and we have brought it into the new one as well. We take the helmet from the story of the Roman Centurion, from Matthew 8. The soldier from scripture clearly understood authority and had great faith in Jesus' ability to heal his servant. The words of Jesus have been artistically represented in the stained glass of the west window in our Sentinel Building "Go, and it will be done just as you have believed". And it also makes us think of Paul's letter to the Ephesians, "the full armor of God". The helmet is a symbol of salvation, the starting point of our lives with Christ, that allows us to join in God's work.

The image of the book is new. As a Christian school, it of course points us to the Bible, the most important source for growing in wisdom, knowledge and understanding. It also commemorates that JRHS is a place of academic learning, and therefore symbolizes the robust program of study our students are offered. The bookmark makes us realize that JRHS is both spiritual and academic learning, the integration of faith and learning

Astute viewers won't miss the Cross on his Helmet, reminding us that JRHS is a Christian school in name and practice. As our students prepare for the battles of life ahead, the power of the Holy Spirit will go before them.

On the top gold, we included our date of establishment – which shows our comparative longevity, as well as our desire and plan to issue in several more decades ahead. With this logo, we have now brought clarity to our colors. Our base colors are green, symbolic of growth, and white, symbolic of purity. These base colors are trimmed by gold, representing the majesty of Christ in our lives.

We have also boldly proclaimed the full name of the school for the primary logo. The images, combined with the nice clear font of our name, will be a beacon that JRHS is "NH's most distinctive Christian Academy."

2021-2022 SENTINELS BASKETBALL SEASON By Sam Carlson ('22)

After a championship from both the boys and girls basketball teams last season, this season is going to be an exciting one as both teams are looking to repeat. This season will be nice coming back from the tough Covid season, where there were some precautions taken both on the court and in the stands which were challenges for not only the Sentinels basketball teams, but the ones that we played against. Both teams have also had minimal player losses to graduation, as the boys team has lost three and the girls team lost two.

The boys team has only gotten better this season, with six seniors, five juniors, three sophomores, and three freshmen. There are plans for two tournaments over Christmas break, as well as some scrimmages with teams that are not in the league to get ready for the official season that starts in January.

The girls team has two seniors, three juniors, five sophomores, and two freshmen. They will also be participating in a tournament over Christmas break, as well as some scrimmages before the season.

We are blessed to have a full coaching staff of Doug Langlois, Adam Stockin, Will Deacon, Anna Shalda, Marissa Fuller and Janelle Kamerman.

CONSIDER BLESSING JRHS THROUGH A GIFT TO THE ANNUAL FUND

Jesse Remington High School is blessed by those who partner with us in prayer and who support the school through their gifts. Gifts to the Annual Fund make a direct impact and are an investment in our Mission. At JRHS students are directed toward excellence in the pursuit of knowledge, wisdom and understanding. Yet, our emphasis is not on gaining knowledge for knowledge's sake. Rather, our goal is to teach students to learn and see the world from a Christian perspective and to realize that every Christian is called to play a role in God's work in the world. The JRHS educational experience helps students to discover God's calling on their lives as they continue their education or enter the workforce.

Annual Fund gifts are directed wherever the need is greatest. Those gifts create opportunities for learning and discovery, allow us to provide scholarships for students who need them, and give JRHS flexibility to take advantage of new opportunities and to respond to unanticipated needs and challenges. Gifts can be made by check mailed to the school or online through the web site by using MAKE A GIFT | JRHS and choosing Annual Fund from the drop down.

Year after year, gifts to the Annual Fund not only sustain Jesse Remington, but also help us thrive! We are thankful for your support!

OUTDOOR EDUCATION

By Davis Palmer ('22)

Besides having a project-based curriculum, Jesse Remington's Outdoor Education program is a distinguishing aspect of the school's unique student life. Rather than having a traditional physical education program where students engage in a limited set of physical activities indoors, Jesse Remington offers a truly unique experience where students can engross themselves in a variety of activities, immersed in nature and the outdoors. One example of the endeavors that students can enjoy is the OE Plus program. Here, students have a choice of a handful of activities that they may engage in and develop over four sessions. Golf, Korean traditional archery, disc golf, equestrian, and wilderness survival are just some of the choices. Because the events last for more than one class, students have the chance to truly develop their skill at the activity, fostering newfound appreciation for activities they may enjoy throughout their lifetime.

Another important part of the outdoor education program is the three hikes that students will embark upon during the school year. These hikes serve as arduous obstacles for students to tackle, feeling rewarded upon completion. Climbing the mountain is representative of the effort that students must make to succeed in their scholastic journey, and shows the importance of exhibiting grit and perseverance to overcome obstacles. The first two hikes typically take place during the first weeks of the year, with students getting opportunities to know one another better, and sharing the burden of the hike just as they will share the burden of academics during the coming semester. Conquering these hikes gives encouragement to all of the students, as no student is left behind and all experience the feeling of overcoming the arduous challenge. These hikes, as well as all of the other experiences offered by the Outdoor Education program, are part of Jesse Remington's development of all aspects of a student's life.

By Keziah Cyr ('22)

Nathan Archambault is planning on becoming a plumber after graduation. His favorite project class has been Leather Craft, he has made some very nice items, but the most notable has been his watch band cover. This winter, he will be playing on the basketball team. Over his past four years he has been quite inventive and when he arrived freshman year he was quite sure that plumbing would be his future.

Sam Carlson has been a key player in the JRHS community. After graduation, he is planning on going to college for marketing, he wants to go to one of the Carolinas or Georgia, and he is planning on trying out for college team sports (baseball, possibly basketball). Fittingly enough his favorite project class over his four years here at Jesse has been Marketing, which seems to be an influential tool for him and his future. Sam has an interest in Sports Media, and will initially look in this direction in college.

Nate Croley is planning to go to Liberty University, studying mechanical engineering. He isn't sure yet about the job he'll get after college, he is open and ready for any opportunity that God brings. He enjoys the Makerspace project, focusing on 3D design, and Nate plans to use these high school skills in his college degree. Nate has taken a big step this winter by joining the basketball team - Go Sentinels!

Keziah Cyr is headed toward sunshine at Southeastern University in Florida. She'll study psychology in hopes of becoming a guidance counselor, or doing other work with children and youth. She has enjoyed several of the project classes, such as the Yearbook group this year with Mrs. Comrie. She enjoyed the relaxed creativity as she had the opportunity to grow in using different softwares as well as gaining better friendships. The most important class to her has been Humanities because it has taught her how to read classic literature better, as well as how to see and understand history. Keziah claims James 1:12 as a guiding life verse.

Lukkas Hyvonen is still deciding what he wants to do in his future, options including forestry, the trades or even the military. The most important class for Lukkas has been Humanities because it has taught him about the history of the world, and how we can learn from past generations. The Fall mountain retreats have always been formative, because it is a time to form new relationships with people that you might not normally associate with. Lukkas is also very mechanically inclined, and this comes out frequently in his pursuits. Joining the basketball team his Junior and Senior year has been a new adventure for him. Lukkas claims John 16:33 as a life guiding verse.

Aletheia James is excited to attend Houghton College in New York to study English. She plans on becoming a teacher or a writer. She was recently accepted into the Houghton Honors Program, an exciting and demanding program for top incoming students. After graduation, she hopes to work at Camp Sentinel where she was a counselor this past summer. She found the experience intriguing and enjoyed interacting with children. Her favorite project is Bookmaking, where her creativity shines! She recalls the mission trip to Dreamers' Ranch as a seminal experience, through the creative work we did, as well as working with the kids on the ranch. Theia looks to Romans 8:38-39 as a life guiding verse.

Aidan Jeanes is planning on going into mechanical engineering. He is looking at three different colleges that seem to fit him very well: Messiah University, Houghton College and Grand Canyon University. His favorite project class has been Maple Sugaring; he has enjoyed it because he enjoys the hard work as well as the feeling of accomplishment he gains at the end when all the syrup is bottled and ready. The most important class has been Physics with Miss Wilderman. The class helped further his love for physics and the way the world works. 2 Corinthians 13:12 is his guiding verse.

Adalie Kamerman started her Junior year at JRHS as a transfer student. She remembers the warm welcome she received and immediately loved the JRHS culture where, "Everyone wants to get along with everyone." Relationships grew through the rich experiences the "Jesse Remington way." Hiking in a group of peers on retreats and exploring the outdoors with her friends in OE both developed life-long friendships and gave her a greater appreciation for God's amazing creation. Lunchtime on the basketball court and evening practice with the team are highlights of her time at JRHS. One of her biggest memories was being on the team that won the 2021 State Basketball Championship. She was motivated by all her studies, and grew to enjoy science and math. She plans to attend Dordt University to pursue a career as a Physical Therapist. She praises God for the amazing influence the JRHS community has had on her.

Jaben Morgenthal is unsure of what he is going to do after graduation but he is headed for glory. On the table right now includes either business or trades, or perhaps some combination thereof. The class that has really meant a lot to him was Anatomy, under Mrs. Trudeau. Along with being the best teacher ever, she taught him how to study better, focus more, and manage the workload. Basketball means a lot to Jaben. As his favorite sport, it is also a way for him to invest in the younger guys.

Davis Palmer is looking at a degree in civil engineering, geomatics, or environmental engineering to become a land surveyor. He has applied to and been accepted at Letourneau University and Cedarville with scholarships, but is unsure of the right path. The class that influenced him the most was likely Ms. Wilderman's physics class or her precalculus class. Both of these classes were very well taught, and Davis enjoyed being able to connect ideas between the two frequently. The school experience that was particularly formative was this year's FMR hike up Mount Baldface. The hike offered a great opportunity to test perseverance and endurance, but also to indulge his passion for the outdoors. Davis counts Colossians 3:23-24 as a life verse.

Camden Stockin is planning on taking a gap year and going to a discipleship training school. He will be applying to The World Race, which is a 9 month 4 country mission program. Camden has a vision to join or form a ministry that best utilizes his skills. An experience that was formative for him and gave direction for his life was his freshman year Philadelphia missions trip. This trip was really when his heart and passion for missions was awakened. Sports have also been important to him, as he has been on the field or the court all years. Camden looks to Joshua 1:9 as his inspiring verse.

SENTINEL SOCCER RECAP - 2021

By Camden Stockin ('22)

The soccer team at JRHS is coached by Doug Langlois and Adam Stockin. This was Adam's last year coaching with our team after eight years of working with Coach Doug and the Sentinels. The Sentinels are one big family that all work together as a team to play our best game and glorify God through playing and practicing soccer. Before every game and practice, the team gathers to pray and give glory to God. This year we had a very strong start to the season. We were very productive and worked hard in practice. This led to starting the season with many wins in the book. However, as the year went on, we had some of our key starting players get injured and taken out for the season.

After such a good run early on, we lost some key season end games, and this put us in the consolation game at the finals. We all went in with a good attitude and ready to play the best game we could and to fight for the win. The other team, Tri City Christian Academy, had the same mindset, and this led to a very close game! It all came down to double overtime with the Golden Ball rule. Sadly, the result was not in the Sentinels favor. Some very understandable disappointment loomed over this loss, after accomplishing a nearly perfect regular season. Coach Doug offered hope and wisdom by saying "sometimes the best team doesn't always win." This gave hope and more drive for coming in the soccer season next fall in 2022 even more determined and ready to win the championship title back!
